Elegy Written in a Country Church Yard is one of the best-known elegies in the language. It exhibits the gentle melancholy that is characteristic of the English poets of the graveyard school of the 1740s and '50s. The poem contains some of the best-known lines of English literature, notably "Full many a flower is born to blush unseen" and "Far from the madding Crowd's

Thomas Gray 's "Elegy
Written in a Country Churchyard" was first published in 1751.

Gray may, however,
have begun writing the poem in 1742, shortly after the death of his close friend Richard West. An elegy is a poem which laments
the dead.

The title of the eighth edition, 1753, is "Elogy, originally written in a Country Churchyard." Three copies of the "Elogy" in Gray's handwriting still exist. One of these belonged to Wharton, and is now among the Egerton MSS. in the British Museum, and this copy is therefore referred to as the "Egerton MS."
